We Love It When Our Client Smiles

Dr. Rangel of Pure Orthodontics in Grand Blanc was interested in constructing and owning a building that would house his long-time orthodontic practice. FUNchitecture loved his sleek, modern design aesthetic and set to work on creatively utilizing a narrow urban site in the downtown core to create a 4,000 SF building, parking, landscape and signage that would suit the client's exquisite taste!

A single-use, modern building with pro-stone in an almost white, paired with clear anodized aluminum ACM panels, black granite base and floor-to-ceiling glass set the exterior tone. Inside, contemporary lighting in all spaces, backlit mirrors at the patient teeth brushing station and a sterile and sleek lab for dental molds of patients' teeth were all part of the interior appeal. White marble accents the reception and check-in station and gorgeous new contemporary patient chairs, features the latest technology for comfort and patient access, grace individual patient stations. Each station has a 5 foot by 8 foot tall window for views outside and natural daylight, which support mindfulness and provide a calming environment for patients who are anxious about their upcoming treatment or procedure. Energy efficiency was at the forefront of the design with all mechanical units housed inside for greatest efficiency, while contemporary LED lights operate on occupancy sensors to reduce electrical draw for the building.
